

COMMISSIONERS' COURT REDUCES GOOD ROADS FUND

George H. Malone, Chairman of the Highway Commission, Considered Action a Great Mistake—Parish Makes Statement.

The Board of Commissioners of Houston county, in session yesterday, reduced the good roads tax from 2 1/2 mills to 2 mills, it is said, for the purpose of bridge building. This will represent about $4,000 yearly from the good roads money.

The action has caused much comment, favorable and otherwise, many taking the position that to reduce the good roads appropriation at this time, while such good headway has and is being made, was a mistake. Others believe that the Commissioners acted wisely.

George H. Malone (chairman of the Highways Commission, which has charge of the road building in the county, said that he considered the action of the County Commissioners in cutting the good roads fund a great mistake. Further than this, Mr. Malone did not commit himself. The Highways Commission has as its members, G. H. Malone, J. R. Faircloth, J. E. Barne, L. W. Armstrong and H. E. Wilson.

State officials who have, from time to time visited Houston county, have been profuse in their praise of the economic plan of road building this county has adopted.

John Craft, on a committee appointed by the State Highways Commission, who was in Dothan a few days ago, said that the good roads in this county were splendid for the amount of money invested. It is said that the Commissioners' court purpose to build a steel bridge over Boggy creek between Cottonwood and Granger, and will assist in constructing one over the Chortawatchie River.

In explaining the action of the Commissioners' Court in reducing the good roads fund, Jack Parish, one of the members, said: "People need not be uneasy about the good roads. The county has to build bridges as well as roads and we are up against a bad proposition in having to build two steel bridges right away. We did not want to raise the tax rate and the only way to get the money for the bridges was to cut a little off the other items."

Good roads building in Houston county will never stop. We are going to keep the work going and spend just as much money building roads as we can possibly spare. Don't be uneasy about the roads."

Traffic Signs Are Posted Down Town

It was hard to do at first, but the negro driver for the Newsom Hotel probably got away with it as well as any others. He, like others, saw the sign 'keep to the right, the intersection of Foster and Main streets, and followed directions. The negro thereby convinced all beyond doubt that he should have been to do city.

Policeman Doc Reeves was stationed at Main and Foster streets today, and in the early morning along with interested spectators he stood at the corner, to enforce the traffic regulations. It was hard deucedly hard for many of the automobile drivers, who have been accustomed to driving as they please turning to the left, splitting the middle of the street or any other way, to catch on. But most of them did. Occasionally some chauffeur would get by wrong.

The intersection of Main and Foster streets has been called Devil's Corner, by some who realize how often lives have been jeopardized by chauffeurs and drivers paying no attention to the traffic regulations at this point. And Main and St. Andrews street, where a similar sign has been placed is almost as bad.

One citizen remarked that unless a policeman is posted at each corner that a day or two may pass before some automobile crashes in to the sign, knocking it from its pedestal.

Thaw would find it easy to escape. Thaw has just purchased a five-passenger touring car. The Canadian border is not far.

But Thaw has shown no inclination to take French leave. This was indicated conclusively by the incident of the fishing trip when he became lost. He and Stevens struck in at different points on Nineteen Mile Brook and missed each other. At half past eight o'clock in the evening the Deputy Sheriff called up the hotel, there was some excitement and a search party was organized. Secretary Rice was the leader.

With the aid of lanterns Thaw was found about 2 o'clock in the morning. He was seated philosophically on a rock in the middle of the stream, perfectly calm, though a trifle wet and hungry. With great good sense when he realized that he was lost he had concluded the thing to do was to wait for someone to come to him.

He could have covered a good many miles toward liberty in the hours between 10 in the morning and the time he was located if he had pleased to do so.

Apparently he is convinced that the courts will soon set him free and that there is nothing to do except wait and watch.

Queer Conduct Of Man Puzzles Police

The Police Department had to deal with a most mysterious case last night when Police Officer Horace Daugherty went to a local boarding house and found a man who thought somebody was going to shoot him.

The officer pulled the man from under a bed where he had hidden in fear of some danger, imaginary or real. The man yelled that somebody was going to shoot him.

The police officer could find no body who was annoying the young man who was well dressed. He was taken to the police station, where he spent the night. In his new quarters, he did not let up in his yelling.

Chief of Police C. J. Rollins went to the station this morning and released the stranger on no charge being preferred against him.

The chief gave him a bottle of water. It is that the same kind you were trying to give me last night he asked.

In an effort to find out what was the matter with the man, Chief Rollins was questioned, but could offer no satisfactory answer. He told me, however, said the chief, that he was from Montgomery and had a wife and six children.

District Conference Adjourned Today

All Departments of The Church Show Evidence of Progress—Bishop McCoy to Preach Sunday.

The Dothan District Conference came to a close today. Rev. H. H. McNeill announced to the congregation at the Foster Street church last night that this in many respects had been the most interesting district conference he had ever attended. All departments of the church throughout the district give evidence of progress under the superintendency of Dr. W. P. Dikinson the Presiding Elder.

Bishop James A. McCoy of Birmingham presided at the conference and last night at the Foster Street church preached a powerful sermon the first a Dothan audience had the pleasure of hearing from the Bishop as this is his first visit to the Wiregrass.

Bishop to Preach Again. He will preach again Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Foster Street church and at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Lafayette Avenue church.

Large congregations will undoubtedly hear the distinguished churchman at both of these services. At the close of the conference today the following resolution was passed:

Resolution of Thanks.

Whereas unusual and much appreciated courtesies have been tendered this district conference and its members during the present session by the good people who have entertained us. Therefore be it Resolved That we return sincere thanks to all who have contributed to our comfort and convenience. We would especially make mention of our presiding elder, W. P. Dickinson and our hosts H. H. McNeill and C. H. Pitty as pastors also R. D. Crawford chairman of the entertainment committee and their corps of efficient helpers, the hospitable people of Dothan whose homes have been opened to us, and we also wish to thank Bishop McCoy for the sacrifice which he has made to be with us. We are sure that he has been a great inspiration to all present.

WHAT MAKES MILK AND BUTTER YELLOW.

That the rich yellow color demanded by the public in dairy products is primarily due to the character of the cow's feed is demonstrated by recent experiments carried on by the department in cooperation with the Missouri State Experiment Station. For some years dairy experts have been studying this question. Their conclusion is that, although to some extent a breed characteristic the intensity of this yellow color may, within certain limits, be increased or diminished at will by changing the animal's ration.

Chemical tests show that the yellow pigment in milk consists of several well known pigments found in green plants. Of these the principal one is carotene, so called because it constitutes a large part of the coloring matter of carrots. The other yellow pigments in the milk are known as xanthophylls. These are found in a number of plants including grass but are especially abundant in yellow autumn leaves. These pigments pass directly

PHOTOGRAPHS OF TRAIN ROBBERS ARE IDENTIFIED

New Orleans, July 25.—Conductor Potter of the New York Limited train on the Louisville and Nashville, who was held up in the suburbs last night, today identified photographs in the rogues gallery of Clarence Beatty, Chicago and Alfred Oliver, St. Louis as the bandits who held up the train and killed Flagman Eglin. No trace of the robbers have yet been found.

CRISIS REACHED IN R. R. STRIKE SITUATION

Chicago July 25.—Crisis is reached in negotiations to settle the dispute between ninety-eight railroads and fifty-five thousand engine men and federal mediators say the situation is strained.

Peace efforts will probably be unsuccessful. Both sides demand concessions, at the same time flatly refusing to make any concessions or change demands.

from the feed into the milk. This explains the well known fact that fresh green grass and carrots increase the yellowness of butter, the only standard by which the average person judges its richness. On the other hand, a large proportion of these pigments is deposited in the body fat and elsewhere in the cow. When the ration is changed to one containing fewer carrots and xanthophyll constituents this bodied store is gradually drawn upon and in consequence the yellowness of the milk does not diminish so rapidly as it otherwise would. This yellowness increases, however, the instant the necessary plant pigments are restored to the ration.

Green grass is probably richer in carotene than any other dairy food. Cows fed on it will therefore produce the highest colored butter. Green corn, in which xanthophylls constitute the chief pigment, will also produce a highly colored product. On the other hand a ration of his chow chow hay and yellow corn is practically devoid of yellow pigments and the milk from cows fed upon it will gradually lose its color. It is of course, indisputably true that the breed does influence the color of the milk fat, but vary the rations and there will be a corresponding variation in the color of the milk fat in each breed.

In cows of the Jersey and Guernsey breeds the body fat is frequently of such a deep yellow color that some buttermen and consumers look with disfavor upon beef from these breeds. For this prejudice there is absolutely no justification. The yellowness of the fat springs from the same causes as the yellowness of the milk fat and there is no reason for objecting to one case to the very thing that is prized in the other.

Paris, July 25.—The climax to the thrilling trial of Madame Caillaux came today when Judge Albanel, president of the trial court, challenged Associate Judge DaGoury to a duel, and Madame Caillaux fainted in court.

Judge Albanel ruled today that the famous Caillaux letters should be read in part. DaGoury instructed favoritism in the ruling and the challenge followed. When the attorney began reading intimate, passionate passages from the letters, Madame Caillaux fainted, interrupting the proceedings until she was restored to consciousness. Men and women fought for places in court to hear the famous letters read.

The letter being read when the defendant began, "When I first met you, my whole being turned toward you. You beckoned, I rushed toward you with furious passion. Another letter ended: 'I send a million kisses to every part of your adorable little body.' Others dealt with Caillaux's differences with Madame Guerdan, then his wife. Blood stained clothing of the slain man were placed before the jury.

Geneva Reeper.

Hon. J. J. Speight denies that he sent Mr. Mulkey a telegram in which he congratulated him upon his victory, adding that "he believed he was the only republican in the district who could do it." The story originated with the Reeper and was largely copied throughout the district, much to Mr. Speight's annoyance. It has never been our purpose to misrepresent any person, and will pay that the news of the receipt of the telegram from Mr. Speight was given us by a citizen of more than average truthfulness, and was published by us in good faith. We regret very much that Mr. Speight has been misrepresented.—Geneva Reeper.

THINK IT BAD.

FRACTION.

Andalusian Standard.

The mayor of Dothan has released a man from the county road crew provided he would leave the city. We do not believe that a judge of any court has the right to release a man convicted of a crime with the option that he leave the city or county. If he has violated the law he should be punished and not permitted, or rather driven to some other place. If a man is an undesirable citizen the courts of his place of residence should deal with him. He must abide somewhere, and it is not right for any court to send him to some other place to punish him, but quit that unjust practice of ordering him to some other place. There is no law for it, and it's a bad practice.

This is a strange story which comes out of Ocala that a saloon there has closed for the want of business. Undoubtedly there is not much to make whiskey drink in the country so a few years ago

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jennie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardul, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardul goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardul. It will help you. Ask druggists.

and the marvelous growth of the prohibition movement in, we believe, distinctly responsible for the result. It used to be fashionable for men to drink; it is now fashionable for them not to drink; and fashion is an imperious mistress with one sex not less than the other. It is distinctly bad form for young men of good social standing to be seen in saloons these days, and for that reason, even when others fail, they keep away from such places and distinguish custom, as in this Ocala instance, puts the saloon out of business.—Lakeland (Fla.) INDIE HAS A LONG MEMORY.

New York World.

A wonderful case of memory was shown by a dove the other day at Hatt, Mo. A former resident, D. H. Leavitt, who has for a few years been in Portland, is visiting his son in Hatt.

When he formerly resided there he took much pleasure in feeding doves, they becoming very tame and responding to his whistle. He always carried a pocket full of corn and had a small army of bird friends.

While walking along Center street Monday morning he recognized one of his bird friends and whistled to it. The bird instantly recognized the sound and made straight for Mr. Leavitt's shoulder, seeming to be perfectly aware of his identity and very glad to see him.

THE PARDONING POWER.

Commercial Appeal.

It is said that less than 100 prisoners remain in the South Carolina penitentiary.

This is not surprising. Governor Blewett declared before he was elected that he intended to clean out the penitentiary. He began by pardoning 800 before he had been in office a year.

This is a decided abuse of the pardoning power. The courts of the State need not seek to punish crime. Their efforts are set aside. It means that sooner or later South Carolina will suffer evil effects from such an insane policy.

No man holds in his official hand a more telling influence than the pardoning power. So man holds in his hand a more sacred trust.

To the sentimentalist, even to the casual observer among philanthropists, the fact that the governor pardoned 100 convicts that they might spend Christmas at home may seem a very beautiful thing, and no one can deny that the pathetic picture conjured up by the announcement is very touching.

wholesale pardoning picture. How about the convicts pardoned who did not deserve it? Because the governor has a sympathetic heart, is that a reason that the safety of society should be endangered? It is not recorded that Governor Blewett has a sympathetic heart. A general impression is that he is seeking to make a spectacular exhibition of himself, and in this he is succeeding.

There were many convicts in the South Carolina prison under life sentence for murder and worse. The governor makes little or no distinction. He pardons all alike. And another question is forced upon thinking people. It touches the courts. All the men pardoned by Gov. Blewett have been tried and adjudged guilty by process of the law. The costs to the state were heavy. What is the use of such courts and the time, pains and money that enter into their maintenance if their labors are to be ignored, their verdicts thrown to the winds by a governor who has an insatiable longing for publicity?

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE MULE

In the last decade statisticians of the department of agriculture estimate that the number of mules in the country has increased more than 60 per cent says The Birmingham Age-Herald. There are now 4,449,000 mules in the United States as compared with 2,765,000 ten years ago. The department's report also indicates that the mule is gaining on the horse in point of numbers. Ten years ago there were six horses to every mule; today there are four horses to every mule. The average price of mules has also increased from $78.99 to $123.85, a substantial gain of nearly 60 per cent. This is considered an exceptionally fine showing made by the hard working mule which is the premier farm animal and has been invaluable to the south in its agricultural development.

Stock men concede that the mule is a much more useful and serviceable animal than the horse. The mule has many points in his favor. He matures early and lives long. He rarely if ever gets sick and at 20 years of age is practically no older than a horse of 10 years of age. The cost of his upkeep is less than that of the horse. Two thirds of the food necessary to keep a horse in good condition will suffice for a mule doing the same kind of work. The expense of shoeing a mule is much less than that of a horse. His hoofs are hard and he can wear shoes twice as long as a horse can. When worked on soft ground roads or fields the mule doesn't need to be shod at all.

And another surprising claim made for the mule is that he is the most tractable of beasts when properly treated. He must be coaxed and kindness must take the place of blows, but when he receives kind treatment the mule reciprocates by doing good work without being driven to it. Once broken of a bad habit it is said that he never reverts to it. His proverbial stubbornness is due to one authority declares, not to innate in him but to his undisturbed nature. He can even be taught to plow, when hooked tandem without lines and without a driver.

In the South there are estimated to be 3,279,000 mules. Kansas and Illinois and the only two northern states with as many as 100,000 mules. New York has only 4,000. Texas leads with 730,000, but Missouri probably breeds more mules than the Lone Star State.

The mule is appreciated at his just value in the South where his ability to stand heat and put in a full day's work has made him indispensable. He deserves all the good things that are said about him. He stands for prosperity and advancement.

FOOT AFFLIANCES FOR DISORDERED FEET.

In olden days people had to sacrifice comfort for fashion; not so in these modern times. If you are wise in your selection you can dress fashionably and comfortably too. Notwithstanding woman's dress is the butt of man's jokes, the following which was told at the Chamber of Commerce banquet this week: Two men were in a very heated argument, one said, "Sir, your argument is like a woman's mother hubbard, it covers everything and touches nothing." The other said, "Your argument is like the modern woman's dress, it touches everything and covers nothing."

Woman has one consolation, all style periods have suffered alike with the jokesmiths.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

They that love beyond the world cannot be separated by it. Death cannot kill what never dies. Nor can spirits ever be divided that love and live in the same divine principle, and the root and record of their friendship.—William Penn

"Every day is a fresh beginning.
Every morn is the world made new.

You who are weary of sorrow and sorrowing.

Here is a beautiful hope for you A hope for me and a hope for you.

"Every day is a fresh beginning.
Listen my soul to the glad refrains,

And spite of old sorrow, and older
sorrowing.

And puzzles forested and possible pain,

Take heart with the day, and be gin again."

BRINGING A BIG SHIP INTO NEW YORK HARBOR

When the tugboat from the 50-foot Aquitania, one of the largest and finest ships in the world, under its maiden trip across the Atlantic from Liverpool with 1,072 passengers on board June 5, 1914, it was required, before entering New York harbor and the up at its dock, to undergo the same rigid quarantine and customs inspections and to follow exactly the same procedure as if it had been the most insignificant tramp steamer. The formalities connected with getting into port, of which the case of the Aquitania is only an illustration on a large scale, are described in a handsomely illustrated article appearing in the August Popular Mechanics Magazine. The work is handled by men who are highly trained and it is ordinarily carried out in an astonishingly short time even with the biggest ships, considering the amount of work that is done.

Every ship coming into New York harbor from a foreign port must lie to or anchor off the quarantine station situated on Staten Island just inside the limits of the lower bay and must remain in that position until it has been inspected and given a clean bill of health by the health officers of the port. One of the rules of the harbor is that the quarantine boat come up to an incoming vessel on the port side. A careful examination is made by the quarantine officers to discover any case of contagious disease, and if any are discovered, the infected passengers, as well as those who if have been exposed, are taken to the detention hospital on Hoffman's Island, in the Lower Bay while the ship itself may be held at quarantine for several days or even weeks if cholera or yellow fever or other
